

Again Makes A Pattern

Electra looked at yesterday's trail.
"What if we do it again?"

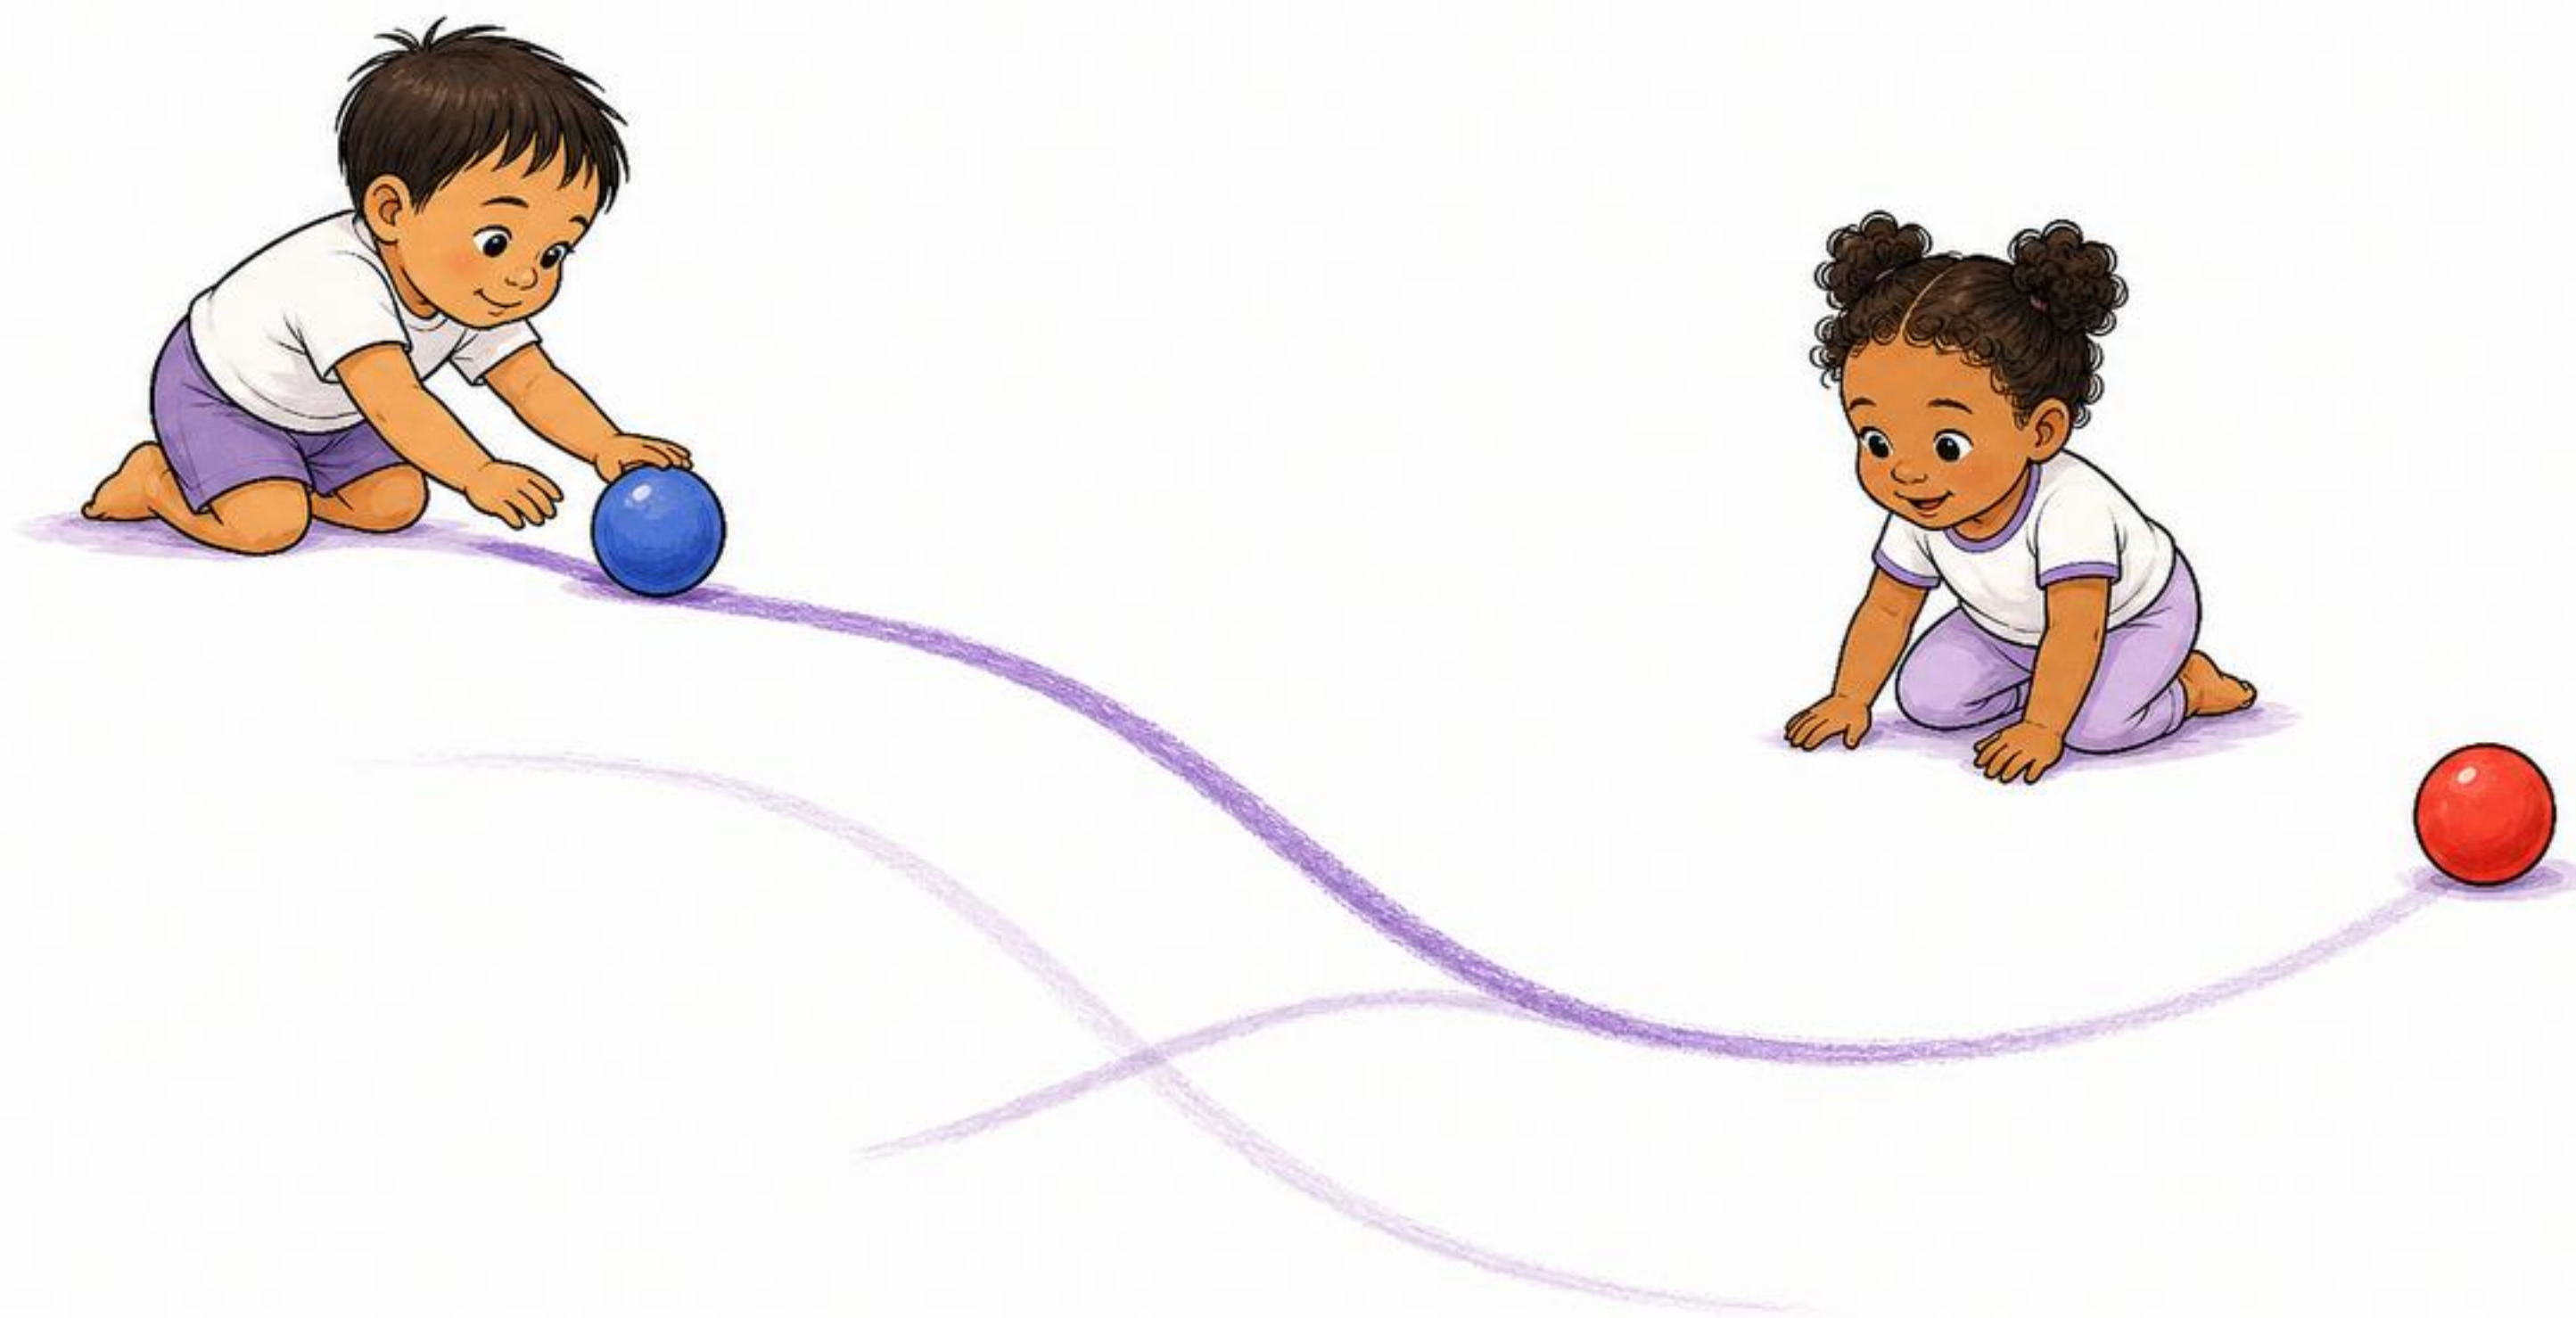

The red ball rolled across the floor.
One path appeared.

The blue ball rolled next.
Its path came close.

"It almost followed the first one,"
Electra said.

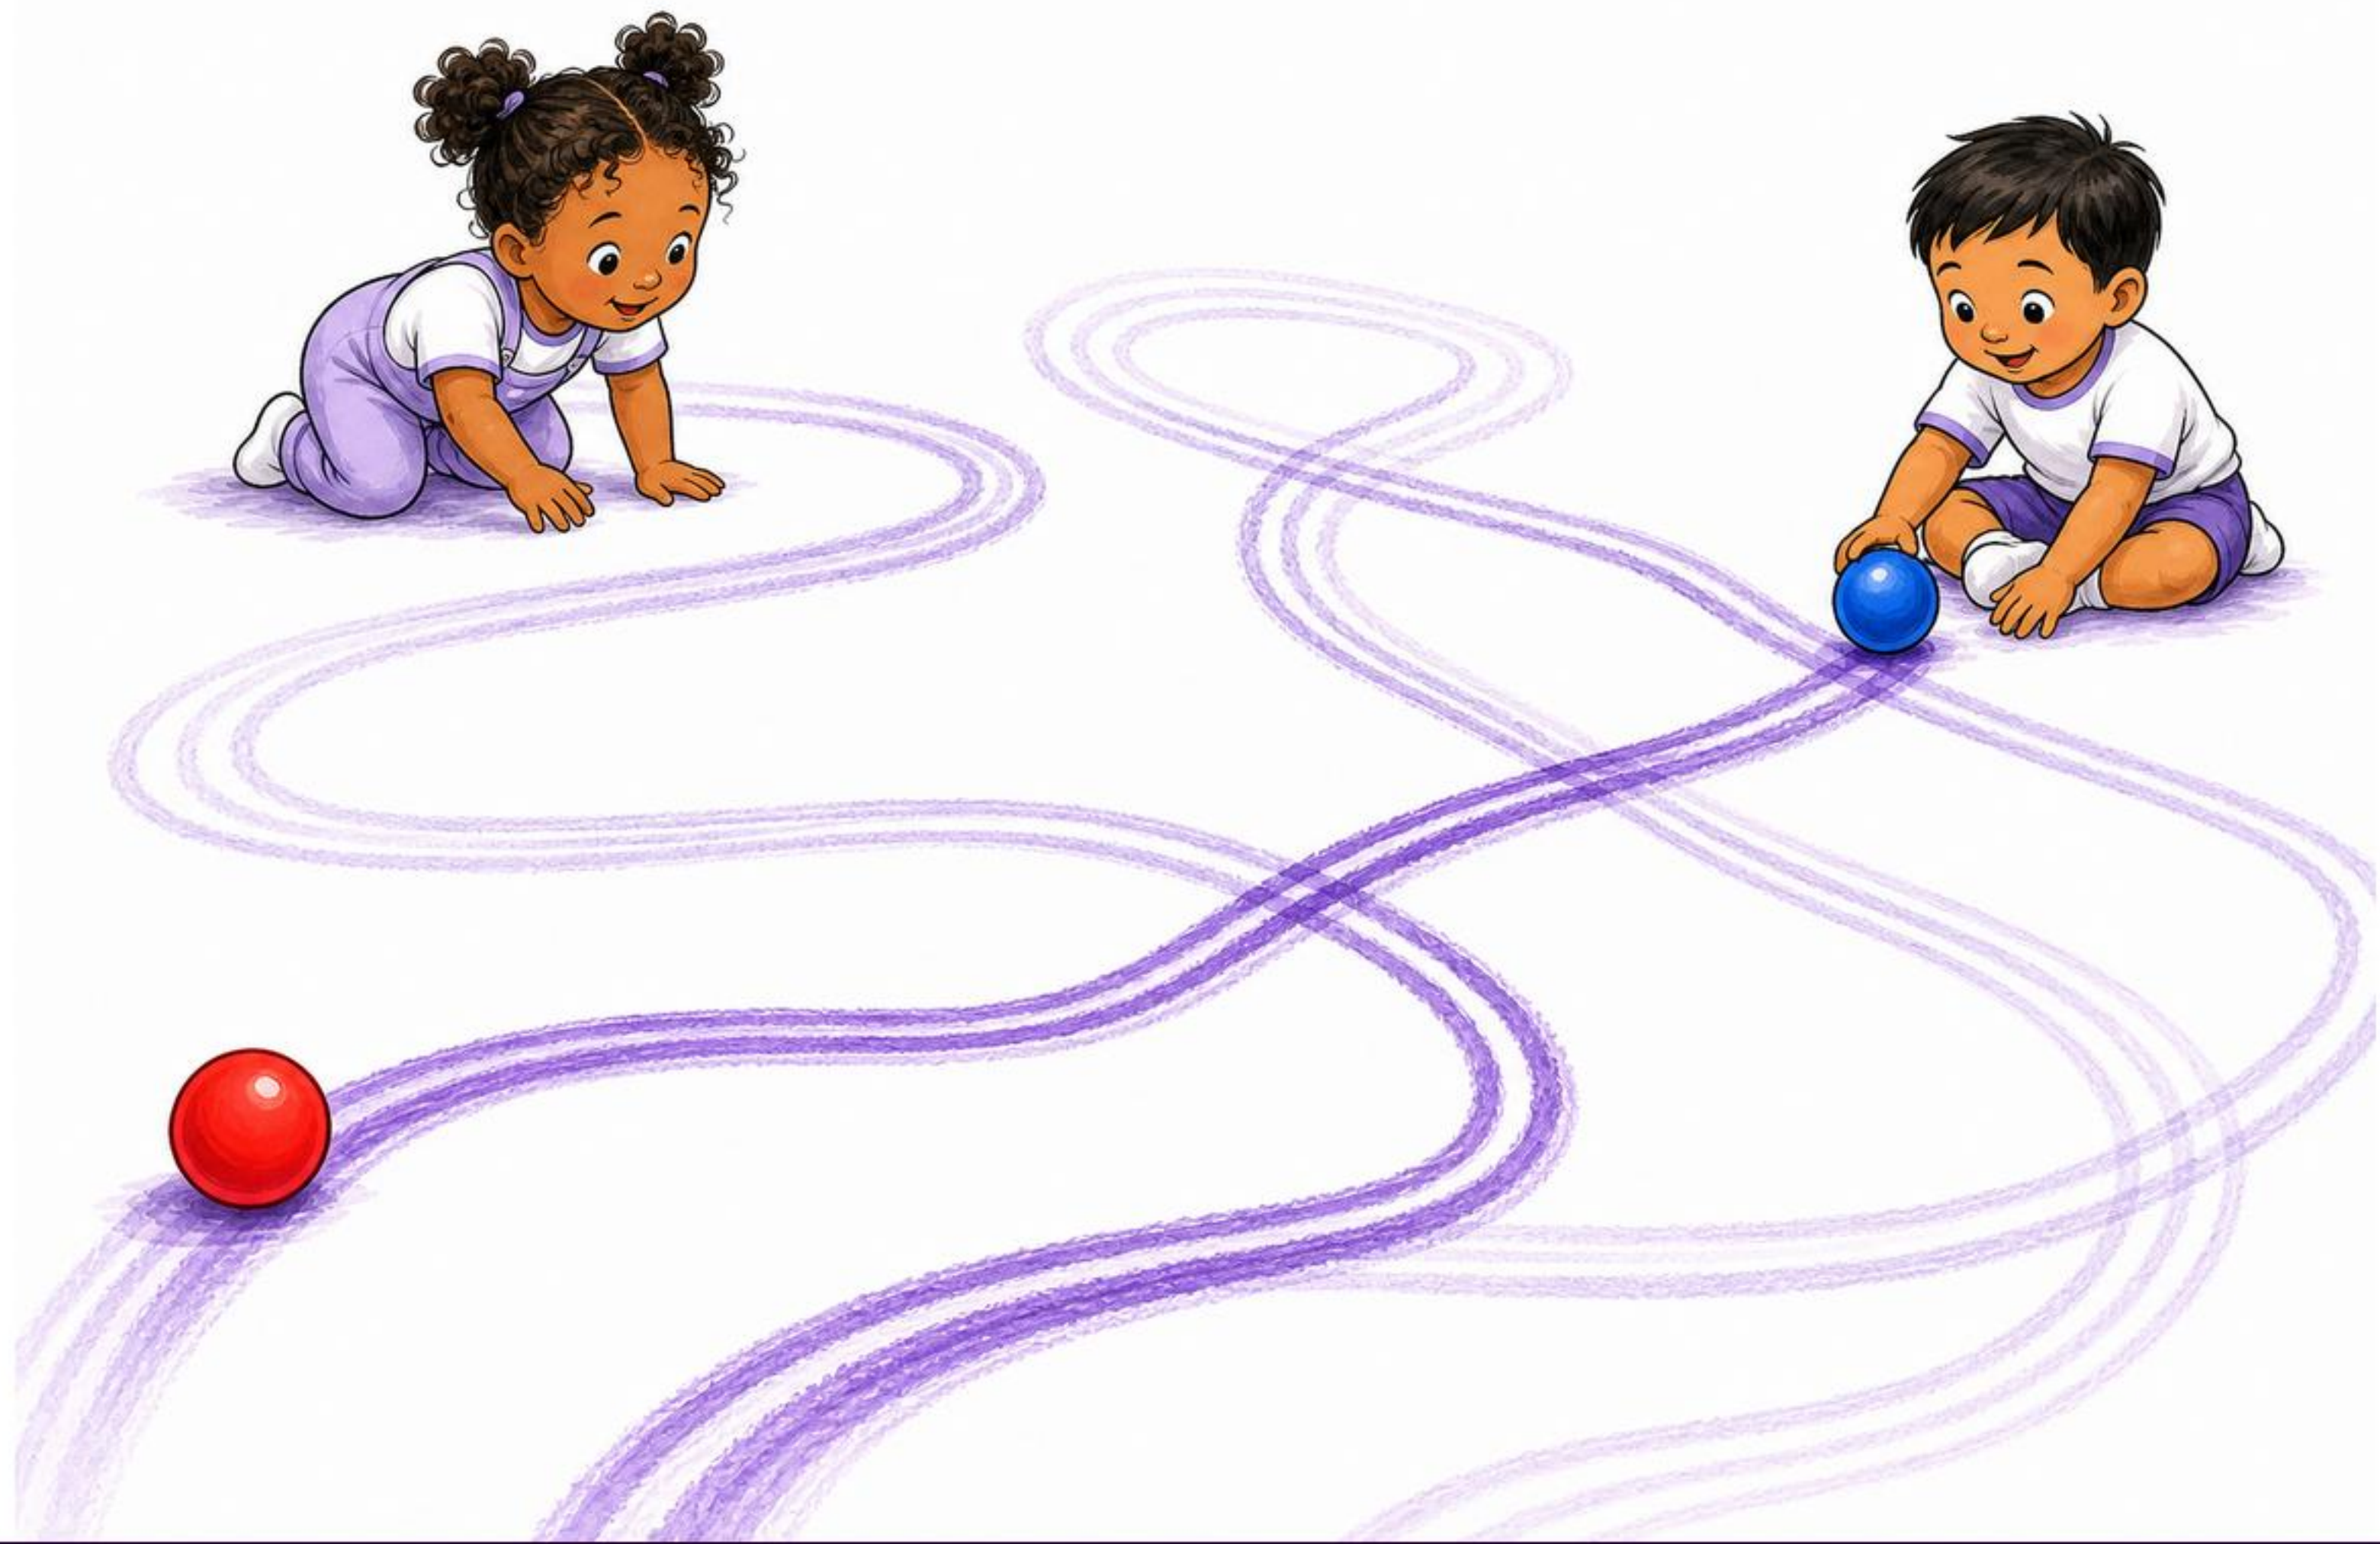

Poz moved the ball farther over.
The path changed.

Electra moved the ball near the old path.
The paths met.

One line crossed another.
Poz traced the crossing with one finger.

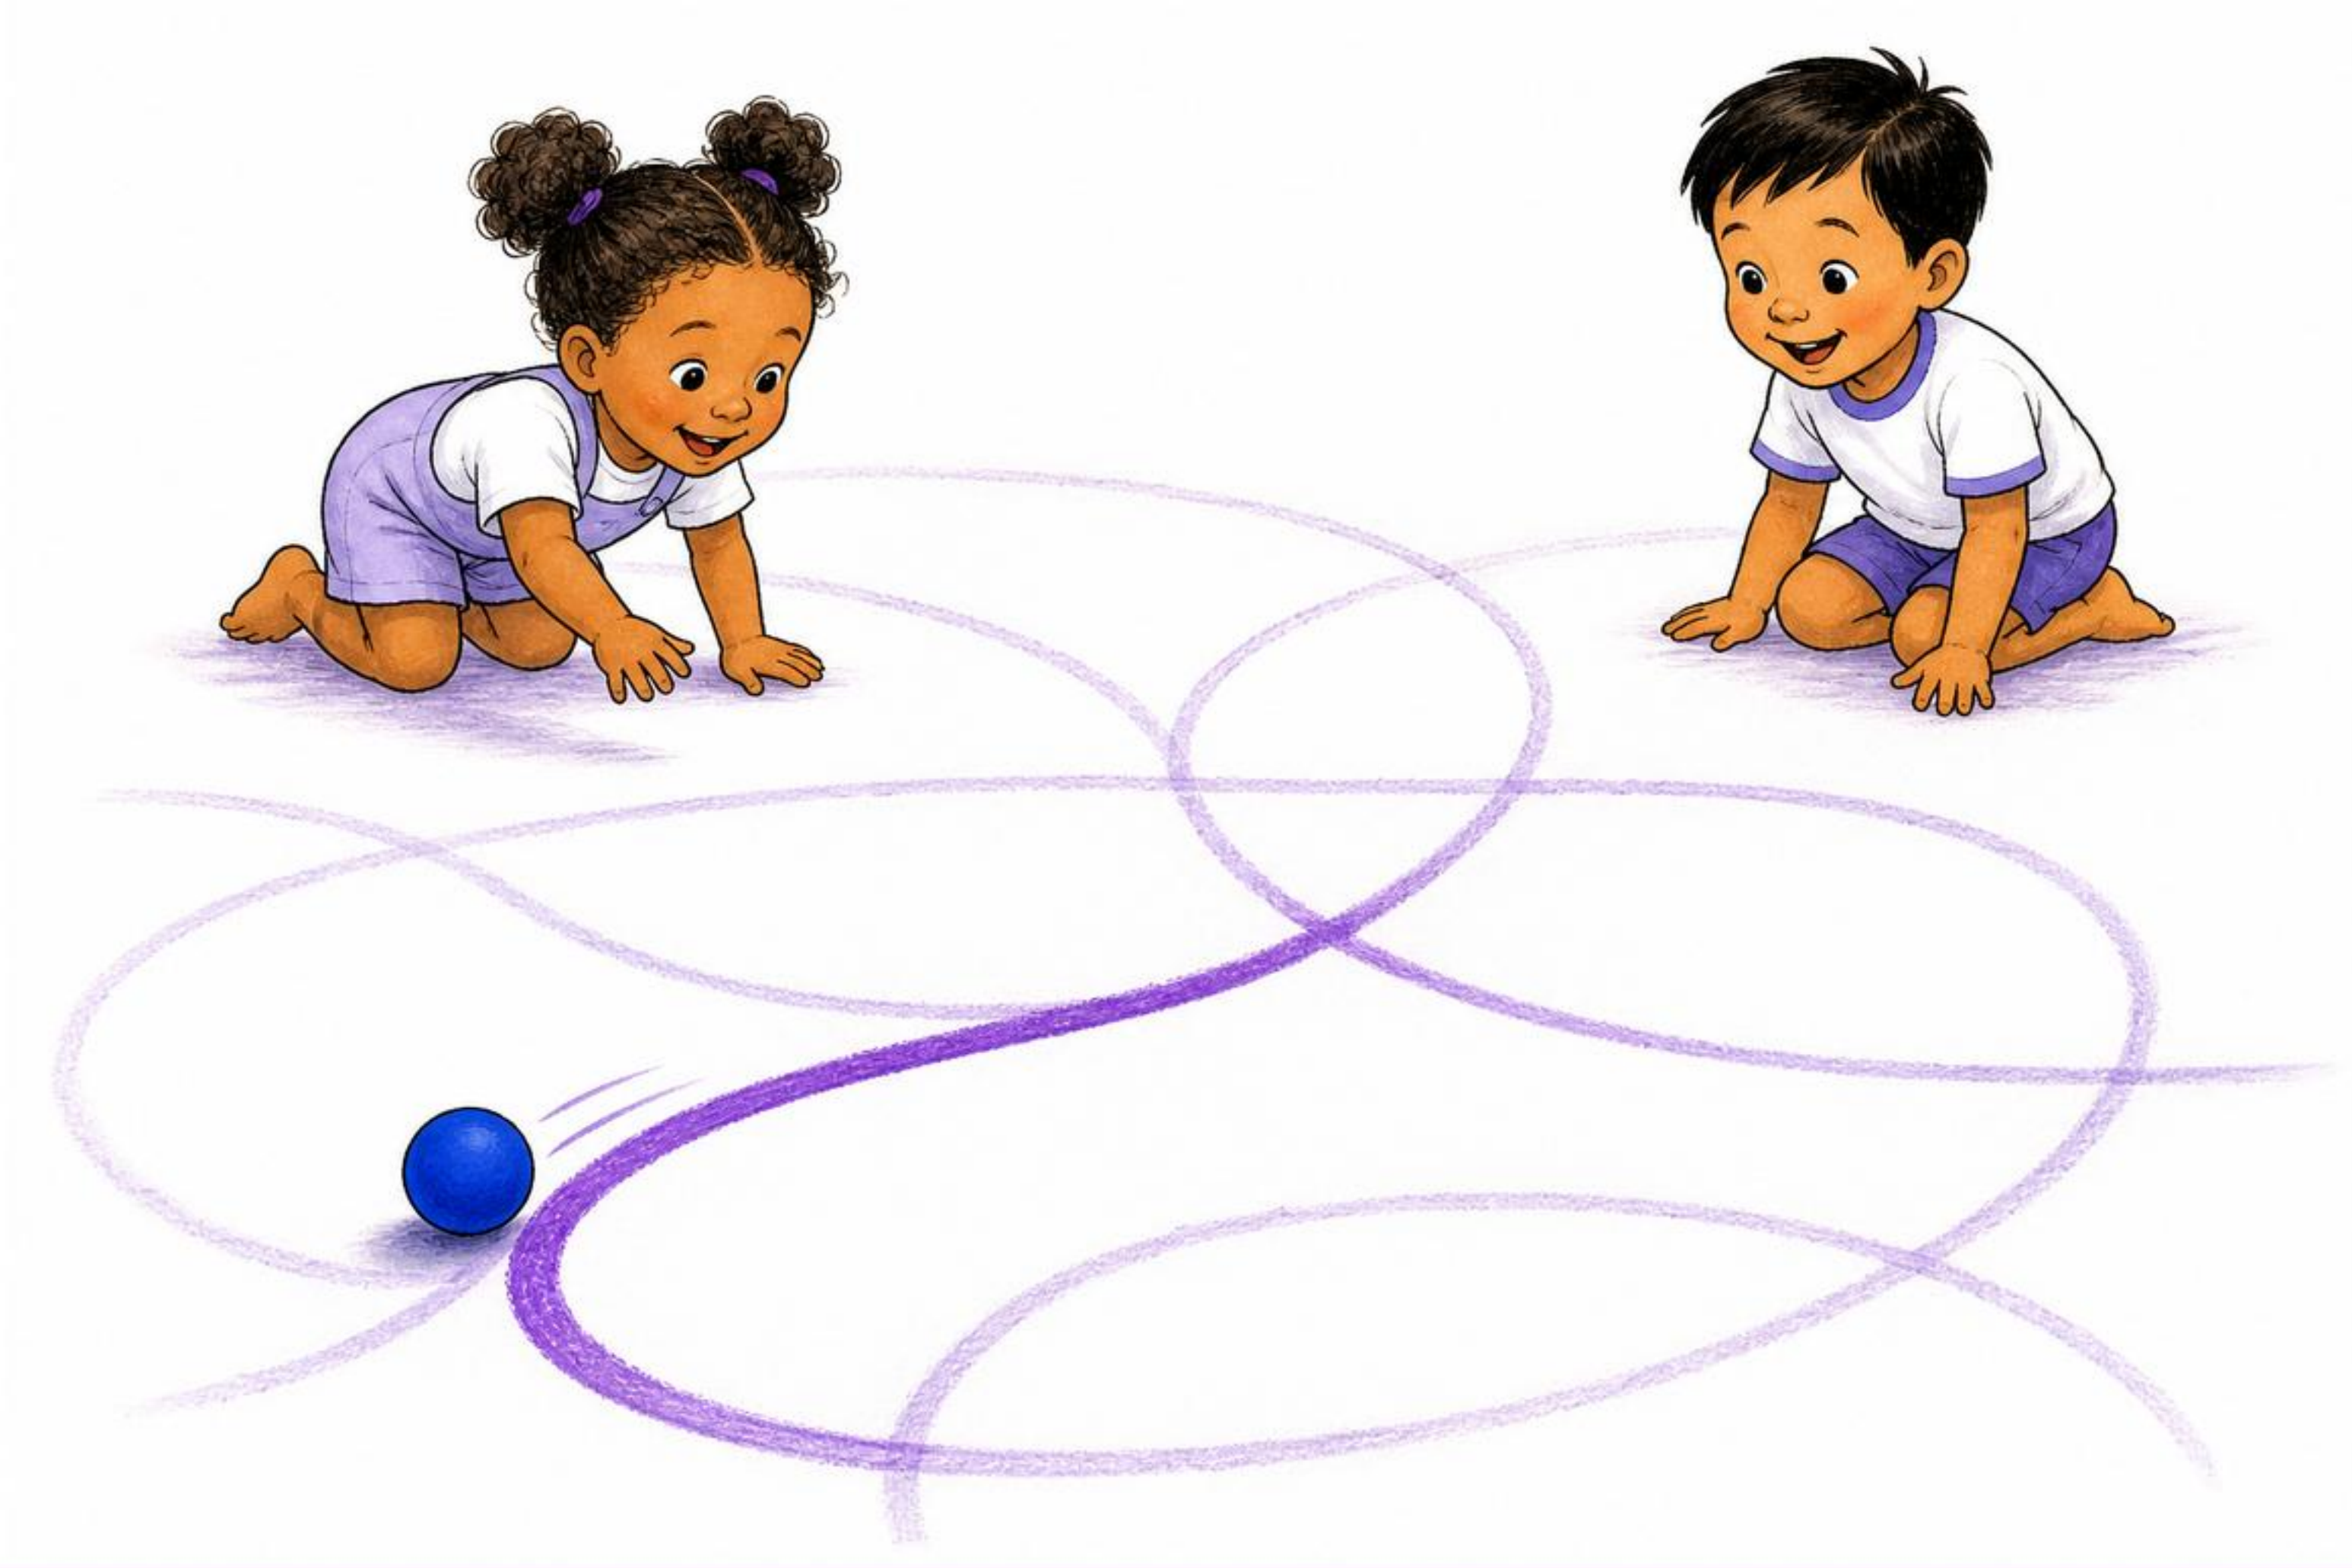

Roll.
Roll.
Roll.
The page grew busy.

The lines were not just anywhere.
They made a quiet shape.

"I think the next one goes here,"
Poz said.

They rolled once more.
The new path joined the shape.

Again made a pattern.
The pattern helped them see.

Roll again.
Find the pattern.
